The Clever Tortoise and the Foolish Monkey

Long ago, Tortoise and Monkey were neighbours. Tortoise was slow but wise while Monkey was quick and playful. One dry season, food became scarce. Tortoise suggested they plant sweet potatoes together. Monkey agreed, but when it was time to dig, Monkey climbed trees instead. Tortoise did all the hard work.

When the potatoes were ready, Monkey wanted to eat the leaves, thinking they were the best part. Tortoise happily let him have them and kept the tubers for himself. Monkey soon realised his mistake, but Tortoise reminded him that patience and hard work always pay off.

Morning Reflections

*In the quiet of the morning,
I watch the world awake.
Birds sing their stories,
The wind whispers through the trees.
I wonder what the day will bring,
As sunlight dances on the leaves.*

*A golden hush fills the meadow,
Where dew still clings to blades of grass.
Clouds drift like thoughts unspoken,
Moments too tender to pass.
Hope stretches in every shadow,
As time begins to gently amass.*

*A breeze stirs dreams I'd left behind,
Soft footsteps of a brand-new start.
The world feels wide with promise,
Peace echoing in my heart.
In the stillness, I find my centre,
Ready now to play my part.*

(The classroom is arranged for a debate. At the front, the teacher stands ready to moderate. Three learners, Amina, Brian, and Lila, prepare their arguments. The classmates wait eagerly.)

TEACHER: Welcome everyone. Today we debate on: “Technology is more helpful than harmful.” Amina, you may begin.

AMINA: Thank you, Teacher. Technology connects us and makes learning easier.

BRIAN: But it can also distract us and make us less active.

LILA: I believe technology is helpful if we use it wisely.

TEACHER: Excellent points. Let’s hear from the audience.

JAMES: (From the audience) I agree with Amina. I use online videos to understand Maths better.

SARAH: (From the audience) But sometimes I spend hours on games and forget to do my homework.

AMINA: Exactly! We need to learn how to balance our screen time.

Title: A New Beginning

The sun began to set, casting a golden glow over the horizon. The ceremony was about to start. I felt excited, knowing this moment would change everything.

People gathered in the village square, dressed in colourful attire. Drums beat rhythmically, and the air was filled with laughter and anticipation. This was the day I was being recognized for completing my journey of initiation into adulthood. My heart raced as elders walked in slowly, their faces glowing with pride.

As the ceremony began, I remembered the challenges I had faced. Days of training, moments of fear, and nights of doubt all led to this one day. I had learned the importance of patience, courage, and responsibility.

When my name was called, I stepped forward, trembling yet determined. The chief placed a beaded necklace around my neck. The crowd cheered, and I saw my parents smiling with joy. At that moment, I knew life would never be the same again.

The sun disappeared beyond the hills, but a new light shone in my heart. I was no longer a child; I had taken my first step into adulthood.
